

PRESS BILL OF FARE THIS WEEK

John D. Rockefeller to Continue
His Evidence in Standard
Oil Hearing.

END OF FOOTBALL SEASON

KETCHEL - PAPKE FIGHT TO COME OFF WEDNESDAY.

John D. Rockefeller is the "headline" in the news program for Thanksgiving week. He will return to the witness stand for continued cross-examination in the government's suit for dissolution of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Other major features in the outlook for the week will be:

The international automobile race on Thanksgiving day at Savannah, Ga. There have been already fatal and nearly fatal accidents in the preliminary practice on the tracks, and the race is likely to be the most sensational in the history of automobile racing in this country.

Publication of the financial statements of the Republican and Democratic committees, showing their receipts and expenditures during the recent presidential campaign. The Democratic committee has already published the names of contributors of $1,000 and over. The Republican committee will follow suit.

Van Buelow to Speak. Prince von Buelow, the German imperial chancellor, is expected to give on Tuesday in the Reichstag his own impressions of and deductions from his interview of Tuesday last with Emperor William on the subject of the emperor's personal expressions, especially with regard to matters of foreign policy.

While the people of China have on the whole received the news of the demise of their Manchurian sovereign with characteristic equanimity, the surface of the vasa population is regarded as anything but a calm index of what may be coming beneath, and the civilized world watches with apprehension for what any hour may bring.

The football season will end on Saturday with the army-navy game at Philadelphia. The game will be preceded on Thanksgiving day by the important game between the teams of the University of Pennsylvania and Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y. Another event of sporting interest will be the Marathon race at Madison Square Garden, New York, on Thanksgiving eve, when Dorando, the Italian runner, who made a dramatic finish at Philadelphia, is expected to win.

Triumph of the English. John J. Hayes, who won the English Marathon, is expected to win the race at Madison Square Garden, New York, on Thanksgiving eve, when Dorando, the Italian runner, who made a dramatic finish at Philadelphia, is expected to win.

President Roosevelt will be distinguished at the unveiling on Wednesday in Washington of the new statue in honor of General Phil H. Sheridan.

Other Events. Other foreseen events of general interest this week include:

Monday—Sarah Koton placed on trial at New York for the murder of Dr. Martin Austler, ways and means committee at Washington resumes hearings, preparatory to tariff revision bill.

Tuesday—Chairman Hitchcock of the Republican national committee confers with Mr. Taft at Hot Springs, Va.; stockholders of the Western Union Telegraph and Manufacturing company at Pittsburgh act upon reorganization plan; President Castro of Venezuela expected to leave for Europe for surgical operation in England.

Wednesday—Hearing at Paris of Count Boni de Castellane's suit against his former wife for the custody of his children; case of Mac Otis at Chicago, charged with conspiracy to procure the murder of his mother, Ketchel-Papke fight at San Francisco.

Thursday—Jenkins-Yussouff wrestling match at Madison Square Garden; Attel-Weeks fight at Los Angeles.

How to Clean Hair Brushes. Good hair brushes are costly items, but if properly cared for they will last for years. To wash them, have ready two basins, one three-fourths full of boiling water and the other with the same amount of very cold water. In the first, dissolve a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder and shake the brushes up and down in the boiling water until they are thoroughly clean, then at once rinse well in cold water and stand the brush to dry in the air or in a warm place, but not too near the fire. Of course the back of the brush must not be wet.

Gifts selected now will be held for purchaser until Christmas if a small deposit is paid. Phone 65 for the correct time.

SALT LAKE EXCELS ALL COMPETITORS IN NOVEMBER WEATHER

Twenty Days of Beautiful Sunshine When Storms Rage In Other Parts of Country—Prediction is for Cooler and Showers, Perhaps.

Some folks say that Thanksgiving wouldn't be Thanksgiving at all if it weren't a white Thanksgiving. Up in New England, where all the magazine stories about Thanksgiving come from, there is always a setting of snowstorm when the folks from over yonder drive up in a sleigh and shake the flakes from their comforters and their wraps. Here a "white" Thanksgiving is a most extraordinary spectacle; even the oldest inhabitant scratches his head twice or thrice before he can recall the last Thanksgiving in November when it showed good and plenty.

There is a ray of hope for those who are fond of a white Thanksgiving in the trend of the predictions vouchsafed by Dr. H. H. Reser, meteorologist of the Salt Lake bureau. He said yesterday that the night would be partly cloudy, and Sunday would be the same. He said it would be cooler and there might be showers. His prediction for Sunday was right, for a heavy rain started early yesterday morning and lasted until 2 o'clock, during which time nine-tenths of an inch of rain fell, which is a good many people, hungering for the "white," tortured into sleep. Dr. Hyatt keeps up the pace. If Dr. Hyatt keeps up the pace, it may be that Thursday will be "white," and if it is, nobody will say any longer that the weather bureau in Salt Lake can't do just as clever a stunt as the weather bureau back in "Wooster."

What It Used to Be. Talking about weather. One is reminded that this November will probably be one of the record months in all of the years since the bureau has been established, now about thirty-five years. Perhaps it is on account of the race meeting that the weather man has been kind in dealing out his fair weather, perhaps it is just to show that he isn't so dreadful as people would paint him, perhaps he has given Salt Lake this glorious weather as advance compensation for that which he is going to do to them when he turns on the Arctic tip. At any rate, no one will deny that the weather since the first of the month has been ideal. True, during the first three days there was a superabundance of heat, occasioned by the strenuousness of the campaign, and after the first Tuesday there was a decided chill in some of the political camps, yet there was no frown on the countenance of Old Sol at any time, and he beamed his kindly beam on Republican and Democrat alike, and has ceased not to beam until Saturday, when he thought it was time to take a vacation. So concluding, the old fellow hid his face behind the clouds, and when he will appear again no man save Dr. Hyatt may presume to say.

Without a Cloud. Twenty days of sunshine, grand, glorious, magnificent sunshine, is the record thus far for November, A. D. 1908. Previous years there have been when the sun shone scarcely at all in November, and previous years there have been when neither rain nor snow came upon the earth. It is the testimony of the record that in the November of 1904 not a single trace of precipitation was noted. That year, it will be remembered, was also a presidential year. In 1875, which was far removed from a presidential election year, Salt Lake had the worst November for precipitation that ever was, and maybe that ever will be. In that month, would anyone believe it, 5.81 inches of moisture fell. The average precipitation for thirty-three years was 1.40 inches in November.

In the same number of November's the average number of clear days was twelve, partly cloudy nine, and cloudy nine. The present November has that record beaten a foot, a foot and a half, or two feet, for already there have been twenty clear days, and Saturday could be classed as only partly cloudy.

When the Wind Blew. The figures show that in all years the average of the wind has been (counting meetings excepted) five miles an hour. Two years ago, however, there

Modern Woodmen of America. There were forty-five members of Excelsior camp present at the hall last Tuesday evening. This is a credit to the efforts of the district committee, which has been visiting each member in his home in order to get him to attend camp.

The neighbors are beginning to realize that the visit of Heed Consul Talbot and other head officers is an important one to the Woodmen of this city and a brilliant reception will be tendered them on Dec. 9 in the Odd Fellows hall. A dance will be given, after which they will partake of a banquet. There were five new members added Tuesday evening. Thirty-one applications for adoption were voted upon favorably. He announced that General Organizer Gilroy would be in Salt Lake Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Nov. 24 and 25, and will give an address to the Woodmen of this city on those evenings, to which all neighbors are cordially invited. The following officers were elected for the next term: Past consul, H. K. Russell; consul commander, W. D. Clarke; advisor, J. E. A. Jones; clerk, T. E. Newman; escort, N. T. Thurston; watchman, R. G. Watson; secretary, E. A. Jones. The chief of the guard, There will be no meeting next Thursday.

Utah camp No. 338 gave a smoker to their friends last Wednesday. There were about 150 present. The program consisted of songs, speeches and a dance. A clever monologue act was given by one of our new neighbors. Some fine violin music was furnished by another, including some tricks of the violin never before shown here. Next Wednesday Head Organizer P. F. Gilroy will be here, and every neighbor should make an effort to hear him. There will also be an election of officers and the chief of the guard will be in the clerkship, as the present clerk will retire.

Yeomen. The Brotherhood of American Yeomen held their regular business meeting last Thursday evening. Nominations were made for the election on Dec. 3. Lady Rebecca reported that Sister Simons was rapidly recovering from her illness. Brother Carlson was reported sick. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Women of Woodcraft. Silver Maple circle No. 108 kindled its camp fire Friday night, with a large attendance, and had ten applications for membership. There was a good program. The neighbors who took part were Bales, Gannon, Brannon, Lamb and Fallentine. Only Three More Days To Campaign for Votes

Promptly at twelve o'clock, midnight, next Wednesday, November 25, the voting polls of The Herald's popular prize election close. After that hour positively no more votes will be accepted by mail, personal delivery or from any other source whatever. The greatest and most successful newspaper popular free voting enterprise in the history of the mountain west then becomes a matter of history.

As frequently predicted in these announcements, the last day of this contest marks the time when real surprises will be sprung by the candidates and their friends for the prize honors. The magnificent list of twenty prizes, aggregating thousands of dollars in value, are to be awarded at that time to the ten most popular women and the ten most popular men in The Herald's circulation territory. And that interesting question is decided by the patrons of The Herald.

Now is the all-important time for candidates and their friends to make an extraordinary effort. Just a few more votes may mean thousands of dollars to a candidate, and that means they will make a supreme effort at the finish.

The standing of candidates was published in yesterday's Sunday Herald. Look over that vote record, select your favorite and vote. Your votes may be the deciding factor in a candidate's success. Note the free voting schedule, which allows thousands of free votes on subscriptions and classified advertising, figure the great value of the prizes and carry a good political plan into effect.

Thousands of people are watching the outcome of this unique campaign, and the men and women who win the awards will thereby attain something which will be a lasting pleasure and pride to them outside of the material value.

How the following list of prizes will be awarded and other important details and conditions of this contest have been recently and frequently announced in these columns. Ask the contest editor for any other information desired and read interesting news story concerning this project elsewhere in this paper.
